Kansas City creator • overnight stays, told as one continuous evening

Kellie is a Kansas City content creator making short, first-person video about the city • where to eat, where to stay, and what is worth leaving the house for. Her work is filmed and edited on the day, in her own voice, for people who actually live here. For hotels she films the whole arc of a stay • arrival, room, restaurant, neighbourhood • so the property reads as somewhere locals would choose, not only somewhere visitors land.
